The organ is reported to have come from a church in Norton Canes, Staffs, about 1943.

It has an impressive façade of gold painted display pipes forming a complete screen between the arch walls.

The organ is playable but has not been used for about 12 months. It makes a nice sound, but the bellows need re-leathering. There are virtually no "runnings" in the soundboards.

The church will close on December 22nd 2013 but the organ is immediately available.
